Home About Services Work Contact Cover-Credits: Abhimannu DasPublished On: 16 May 2021, 10:37 AM These are the best controller settings for Warzone Season 3 that will allow you to have fast movement and aiming capabilities. Aim assist should be left to personal preference but if you are new to controllers, using Precision Aim assist is recommended. Auto move forward should also be disabled on controller settings will allow you to get the right mix of aim assist and movement. Whether you are a controller player on PC or on console, using the best controller settings for Warzone Season 3 will let you control your recoil with minimal effort. Aim assist settings are based on personal preference and you should tweak the setting based on what feels comfortable. If you are moving from consoles like the PS4 or the Xbox to PC, you should increase the aim assist as it is more difficult to control recoil on the PC as compared to consoles. From lowering Deadzone settings to optimizing your response time, here are the best controller settings for Warzone Season 3 that you should be using on all platforms. Best General Controller settings for Warzone Season 3 that you should be using on all platforms.

you're playing Fortnite on a controller, you're going to need every advantage you can get against your keyboard brethren. Playing on a mouse and flexibility. But you can definitely close the gap with the best Fortnite controller settings, which range from preset changes to things you may simply overlook. Below you will find all the details you need when it comes to Fortnite on console, or via PC with a controller. While the illustrations are all for a DualShock 4 on a PS4, you can simply swap the middle button for the Xbox One's View button or the Switch's minus button, and so on. All of these controller settings translate to different platform. Without further ado, here are the best Fortnite controller settings for PC, PS4, PS5, Xbox One, Xbox Series X | S, and Switch that we recommend based on our experiences crossed with what we've learned from controller pros like UnknownxArmy and Aydan. BEST FORTNITE SETTINGS
- Best Fortnite Controller Presets - Best Fortnite Editing Settings - Best Fortnite Sensitivity Settings - Best Fortnite Controller Presets Fortnite Controller Presets There are four distinct controller presets for Fortnite, as well as the option to create your own custom preset. Our guide takes you through all of them along with a recommendation. Fortnite Old School as the default option. Do not choose this preset: it's too slow and awkward. Fortnite Quick Builder Preset Build controls Combat controls The poor man's Builder Pro, Ouick Builder Pro, Ouick Builder Pro, Extra preset for the aggressive and frag-minded player, though it is a little strange to use when it comes to building. Fortnite Builder Pro Preset Pretty much the pick for Fortnite controller players, Builder Pro is the most popular controller preset there is and significantly changed the Fortnite experience when it was released. You may be at a disadvantage if you don't choose Builder Pro. Our Recommendation: Custom Preset Build Building Settings: Stair Piece - L2/LT Wall Piece - R2/RT Roof
- L1/LB Next Weapon - R1/RB Inventory - Up Place Material - Left Push To Talk - Right Emote - Down Edit - L3/LS Crouch - R3/RS Pickaxe - Triangle/Y Reload/Interact (hold) - Square/X Switch Mode - Circle/B Jump - X/A We would highly recommend that you select a custom controller preset for Fortnite but use Builder Pro as your
basis. This is because Builder Pro is probably the best fit for the build-heavy meta of Fortnite as it allows you to build the quickest and most smoothly with Turbo Building also applied. You can jump into Creative to practice building all you want. However, its approach to editing leaves something to be desired. Pressing circle isn't quick enough, so we would recommend that you choose L3/LS instead as your left thumb should naturally sit on it anyway. If you turn off or greatly reduce the editing delay option, L3/LS is the guickest possible way to get to editing. If you're worried about how you sprint, you should have the option to automatically run on anyway. The game will warn you about not having a bound input for sprinting, but don't worry: autorun will take care of that for you. If you don't want to sprint, simply press forward softer on L3/LS. We would also recommend that you change your crouch input to something specific while editing and building; default Fortnite settings do not allow you to crouch (at least easily) while building or editing. As with any significant change to binds/presets, we would strongly recommend that you practice heavily in Team Rumble or Creative via special combat courses before you try to roll with this new preset in a real match. L3 takes some getting used to. Best Fortnite Editing Settings Select – R2/RT Confirm - L2/LT Unbound - L1/LB Unbound - R1/RB Inventory - Up Unbound - Left Push To Talk - Right Emote - Down Crouch - L3/LS Reset - R3/RS Pickaxe - Triangle/Y Unbound - Circle/B Jump - X/A The Fortnite editing settings we recommend are not too different from the default, but we have fiddled with it to replicate the same controls of shooting for greater ease. While you can select a square and then confirm it with L2/LT, we recommend that you enable edit on release in settings so that you can simply edit as soon as you let go of the select button, which saves you an input and precious time. Likewise, we go with R3/RS to reset as it allows for very quick resetting when used in combination with L3/LS to initially edit. Again, jump into Creative and try some editing courses before you rock these new Fortnite Sensitivity Settings 2020 Linear or Exponential? Not too long ago, Epic introduced a dramatic change to sensitivity settings for Fortnite in terms of the look input curve: Linear and exponential. Linear utilises raw stick input, which essentially means that your movement on the sticks is closer to the default sensitivity of your controller. Exponential, meanwhile, allows for far more pronounced movement based on the amount of force you apply to the stick, meaning that smaller flicks will be more noticeable. We strongly recommend that you fiddle with both settings and jump into Creative/Team Rumble to find which suits you best, everyone has a preference. We would, however, recommend that you turn on advanced options to allow for greater control over your sens options in Fortnite. Edit hold time: 0.200 seconds Look Sensitivity: 6 Aim Sensitivity: 6 Aim Sensitivity: 6 Aim Sensitivity: 6 Build Mode Sensitivity options: 2.5x Edit Mode Sensitivity options: 2.5x Edit Mode Sensitivity options: 2.5x Edit Mode Sensitivity: 6 Aim S seconds ADS look horizontal speed: 16% ADS look vertical speed: 16% ADS turning horizontal boost: 0% ADS turning boost ramp time: 0.20 seconds Move stick deadzone: 24% Look stick deadzone: 24% Look stick deadzone: 27% We cribbed our Fortnite sensitivity settings from pros before fiddling with them to be better reflect us personally. No two Fortnite players will have the exact same sensitivity settings, so it's really a case of finding which suits you best. That being said, we would not recommend ramping building sens up to the maximum. It's very hard to be precise with it up this high, meaning that you may randomly place walls all around you when you're just trying to box up. Best Fortnite Control Options Fortnite settings Toggle sprint: off Sprint by default: on Frees up L3 for editing, as we mentioned earlier. Sprint cancels reloading: off Reset building choice: on You need this on because otherwise if you had just used a pyramid and need to throw up a wall, that's going to set you back. Aim assist: on You should never have this off. You will have a bad time otherwise. Edit mode aim assist: off A personal thing, here, but we find that having aim assist off with out high sens allows us to get through edits much quicker. Fiddle with it and see what you think. Turbo building: on Allows you to build ramps/walls etc without having to constantly tap the button. Auto material change: on Vital, saves you an input of swapping mats. Controller auto-run: on This is now on by default and you have pretty much no reason to turn it off. Allow cross platform parties: on Basically turns on cross-play. May take you much longer to find a match with this turned off. Auto open doors: off Unless you want to randomly get shot through a door, keep this turned off. Auto sort consumables to right: on Makes your life a lot easier. Controller edit hold time: 0.145 We've turned this one right down, but have not turned it to 0 as L3 can be rather sensitive. 0.145 gives us plenty of wiggle room. Vibration: off Note that if you're playing on PS5, this will also turn off the DualSense's adaptive triggers function. Best Fortnite Dead Zone Settings A personal pick and not one that you may notice that much, deadzone is actually a very simple thing in Fortnite — it's for those who have older, less responsive controllers. Deadzone customisation is better if you find your analog sticks drifting or if you have a less responsive controller through age. The best thing for you to do if you notice drift is to keep fiddling with your own settings until you find the correct deadzone that suits your controller. Best Fortnite Camera and Display Settings will help you to perform better out on the island, but don't forget that practice makes perfect. You're going to want to get to grips with these new settings across loads of matches and games in Creative, but don't worry about fiddling with what we recommend to find the settings that suit you. Do I Need A Scuf For Fortnite? Scuf Pro Controllers Thinking of playing Fortnite a bit more competitively than most? Then you'll want a Scuf, which allows you to use to a wider range of inputs quicker without having to resort to the claw technique, which is not great for your hands in the long-term. They're fairly easy to set up too, even if the initial use of magnets may be a little odd. On top of that, they have better grip and heft, meaning that they will be more suitable for long gaming sessions than your standard DualShock or Xbox controller. You may also want to check out the Elite if you're playing on an Xbox console as that's the absolute premium in comfort. However, if you're not playing Fortnite all that much or aren't competing in any of the game's many tournaments, it's not an excess that is really worthwhile. Scuf controllers are meant to make the better players even better and won't really transform your play if you're just average — that's what Creative is for. Fortnite: Battle Royale is free-to-play on PC via the Epic Games Store, PlayStation 5, PlayStation 4, Xbox Series X | S, Xbox One, Nintendo Switch, and Android. Fortnite. Learn to protect yourself out there!!More Basics For Beginners Here! Health and Shield Keep You AliveThe green bar represents your shield. These two bars indicate how much damage you can take before being knocked out or eliminated. Health Keeps You in the Game When the value of your health bar reaches 0, you get knocked out or eliminated. Your health also takes damage over time when you are caught in the storm, so be careful! Items That Restore a portion of your character's health. Also included are the amount of time needed to apply each item, the amount of health they restore, and their restrictions. Bandages heal for 15 points of health. It takes 4 seconds to use this item, but you cannot use anymore bandages when you reach 75 health. You can have a maximum of 15 Bandages in one slot. Medkits It takes 10 seconds to use this item, but it can heal you back up to 100 health.
You can have a maximum of 3 Medkits in one slot. Foraged Items / ConsumablesForaged items or consumables found around the map provide health when consumed. Bananas, Peppers, and Coconuts have different properties, but they'll each give a set amount of health. Check Out the Foraged Items Here Shield Protects Your Health
When you get hit, your shield will take damage first before your health bar. It allows you to take more damage before being knocked down or eliminated. However, your shield will not protect you from the storm or from fall damage! Items That Restore Shield These items when used will restore a portion of your character's shield. Also included are the amount of time needed to apply each item, the amount of shield they restore, and their restrictions. Small Shield Potion Small shield potions once your shield reaches 50 points. You can have a maximum of 10 Small Shield Potions in one slot. Shield Potion Shield Potion Shield Potions restore 50 points of your shield. It takes 5 seconds to apply, and can restore Both In the game, there are items that restore both your shield and your health. Slurp Juice Consuming a Slurp Juice will heal you 75 health over 150 seconds. If your health is full, it will restore your shield the same way. You can have a maximum of 2 Slurp Juices in one slot. Coconuts Similar to the Slurp Juice, the Coconut provides shield when its is consumed with full health. 5 points of shield will be added over a short period of time. Chug Jug The Chug Jug fully restores your shield and health to 100 points, but takes 15 seconds to fully consume. You can only have 1 Chug Jug in a slot. What To Do When You Get Damaged Have you recently taken damage? Is the fight still on-going? Efficiently heal and shield up with these tips! Fight or Run Finish the fight as soon as you can. If you believe that you can not take out the enemy won't follow you! Find or Build Some Cover Some of your items take time to heal you up, and you will not be able to do anything spot enemies so you can steer clear from danger and prolong your survival in the game. Learn how to Achieve Top 10 here! How To Spot Enemies Knowing your enemy's location at all times is key to lasting long in Fortnite. Being aware of your surroundings and using the visual and auditory cues the game provides will help you identify if another player is close by. Visual Cues Help You Watch Out For Danger Visual cues help you identify if another player has been to the location that you're going to. While exploring, keep an eve out for these things: Doors Stay Closed Until Opened Interacting with a door opens it. It stays open until another player closes it. Be careful when entering buildings with open doors, another player might still be there! Empty Or Open Lootboxes Means It Was Already Searched Open lootboxes means that another player has been to this location before you. Try checking whether there are still items left lying around. Loot with caution! Broken Objects Are Resources Gathered A missing wall is just as good as an open door. Stay frosty. Vanishing Objects Means That Another Player Is Near While exploring, you may see a tree vanish into thin air. This is another player in your vicinity. Get down! Built Structures May Still Have Players In Them Built structures such as a wall with stairs means that an enemy has been there. Try avoiding these, especially fully-built forts since those who built them may still be there. If you decide to go near it, better be ready to meet its maker. Loot On The Ground Means A Fight Happened There A lot of items on the ground with no open treasure chest in sight means that another player died on that spot. Check what's left and loot with caution, the killer could be eyeing you next! Auditory Cues Help You Hear For Trouble Other than using your ears are also an important aspect of spotting your enemy. When exploring keep your ears peeled for these auditory cues: Footsteps Mean That An Enemy Is Very Near Running makes a lot of noise. If you start hearing other footsteps, hide and stay still! You don't want to let the enemy know that they're not alone! You Can Hear An Enemy Use Their Pickaxe Harvesting materials using a pickaxe makes noise as well. Be careful when you hear another player doing this because they might have enough resources to get the height advantage on you. Weapon Switching Causes It To Make Noise Switching weapons makes noise as well. There are subtle differences when switching to a different weapon type so familiarize yourself with these in order to predict the weapon the enemy has and act accordingly. Everyone Can Hear An Emote With Sound Ever dance over an enemy's loot? Yes? Well, we can hear you. Chances are, other people heard your gunshots, and may be coming for you. Do not get caught aiming your finger guns at them while they aim real guns at you! Check Out Dance & Emotes List How To Prevent Being Spotted Now that we've discussed the different ways to identify where enemies are in the game, let's go over some ways for you to stay hidden from the enemy. When Exploring As the game goes on, the map area will shrink. If you need to travel around the map, here are some things to remember when exploring. Close Doors Behind You Make closing doors behind you a habit as you play the game. A closed door will also alert you if another player has entered your building since it makes a sound when it opens. Don't Destroy Objects Harvesting materials is an important part of the game. When you are out and about, try to gather these materials as much as you can, but do not destroy the source of your materials! Tip You don't need to fully destroy objects. Suddenly vanishing trees or cars on a player's screen automatically puts them on high alert! Crouching Makes You Move More Quietly Moving while crouched makes you slower, but it also makes less noise. If you find yourself in the same area as another player, and want to get by unnoticed, stay low! Keep Moving Staying in the same place for a long time can have some benefits such as enemies not noticing you. However, if you don't move much, it will be easy for a sniper to pick you off from afar! Only Build When Necessary It might be easier to get to a hard to reach place by building, but the structure will alert an enemy of your presence if they see the it in the process of being built. Before creating your structure, ask yourself, "Is it worth it?" Check Out Basic Building Guide Here Stay Away From Open Areas An open area is a sniper's best friend. They will shoot anything that moves. Try looking for a different route when you find yourself in areas similar to the picture above.

Switch And Reload Guns When You're Alone Switching weapons when you're sure that you're alone won't give an enemy the chance to know what you've got equipped when they engage you. When Fighting Only Fight When Necessary Avoid fights as much as possible. It will almost always guarantee you surviving into the later stages of the game, but when you are cornered and have no choice, fight, and get out of the area as fast as possible. Check Out How To Improve Your Aim Here Suppressed Weapons Are Your Friends When forced to fight if you have a suppressed weapon, use it. It won't make much noise and will not alert any other nearby players. Use louder guns when there are less players left. Use Your Surroundings If you find yourself being shot at from afar, stay low, and try to find some cover. Only build cover if you can't find any. Use The Camera To Your Advantage You are not limited to what your character can see. When entering a new area, use your camera to check corners and see if someone is there waiting for you. Heal Yourself Later After fighting, get out of there, and find a secure place before healing. If you need to get to the ground quickly, you can sky dive instead of using your glider for a faster descenting to a certain height. This is to prevent you from smacking yourself into the ground and suffering from fall damage! Take this into consideration when you're targeting to land in a certain area in the map. Check out the video below:pic.twitter.com/lgiSQ84p80— Movie mentos (@MovieElcoco) July 27, 2018 Tips On Using Your Glider Choose Your Landing SpotLanding Close to the Battle Bus PathDon't exit almost on top of your destination as a vertical path (red arrow) takes more time to land. Instead, exit earlier then free fall down while aiming at the low ground (green arrow). See how it's done!pic.twitter.com/X7IY4FDaBz—Vids (@GW_Vids) August 30, 2018In this example, the goal was to land on a roof in Retail Row. To descend faster, aim was at the lake in Dusty Divot in order to deploy the Glider at the lowest possible altitude. Landing Far from the Battle Bus PathExiting diagonally will result in a longer flight path (red arrow) compared to exiting perpendicularly (green arrow). Land on Roofs Use your glider to manuever yourself on top of roofs. They give you a height advantage plus treasure chests and loots are usually hidden in attics so you can arm yourself. Check Out Best Spots To Land! Check Where Enemies Are Landing You can activate your glider right after jumping off the battle bus to survey where enemy players are headed. This can help you determine which area is safer to land in. Check Out Dangerous Landing Spots! Activate Glider Using Launch Pad Jumping

2021/6/17 17:14 Looking to improve your aim? This guide provides tips on how to improve your accuracy in Fortnite Battle Royale!! Improve Accuracy To Make Shots CountAiming depends on how much you can improve your accuracy. This is a player's ability to successfully land shots. The better your aiming is, the more likely you are to hit targets. Weapon Characteristics Affect Accuracy Different weapons and bullet types can affect a player's accuracy. Your distance, the weapons and bullet types can affect a player's accuracy Different weapons. Is it hitscan or projectile? Is it short-, mid-, or long-range? What is its cons. Find the balance between the two. High Sensitivity Build fast and track movement fast! Practice quick shots and tracking when gunning down enemies. Low Sensitivity Consider your crafting abilities. Check Out Recommended Settings Train Your Crosshair On EnemiesFollow the movements of an enemy as you shoot. Hitscans like SMGs and Assault Rifles are particularly strong with tracking as they hit as long as the cursor is on the enemy. TIPS: Track the person's movement horizontally while aiming at the center of the body. Even if your enemy is jumping, your crosshair will land on their bodies. If you're jumping to avoid being shot, aim downwards as you shoot. This will allow you to hit your enemy's hitbox. If they crouch to avoid headshots, aim at the center of their body. You will either hit their body or their head when they crouch. Predict Your Enemy's Movements Gauge your enemy's movements and align your shot where you think they'll be heading. Projectile weapons like the Rocket Launcher and Sniper Rifle rely on predicting your enemy's position. TIPS: Position your enemy is running. Set your crosshairs in front of them and shoot when they cross your sights. Anticipate out your enemy's movements and adjust to it. If they swivel left and right to prevent getting hit, shoot while they're in the middle of moving. Gunning for Headshots When aiming for headshots with any weapon, aim right at the center of the head. Instead of tracking, predict where they will be and shoot when they align with your crosshair. Shoot At An Angle Tactics will depend on your position relative to your target. High Ground Shooting Check the direction of your enemy's path and shoot where they are headed. If they're going backwards, shoot a bit above them. Low Ground Shooting Sniper rifles are perfect for this. When anticipating their movement, account for bullet travel speed and adjust your shot a bit above their head for headshots or their upper torso for body with your weapon. Use shotguns and shoot downwards while jumping to connect your shots and avoid being shot. Check Out Jump Shooting Here Recommended Fortnite Articles Chapter 2 Season 2 Featured Articles Battle Pass Rewards C2S2 Challenges Featured Skin Articles Skin Glider Pickaxe Emote Wrap Backbling Check Out Today's Item Shop Here Latest News & Update Event List Featured Weapon Articles All been changed with this weapon type!Other weapon Launcher is enough to wipe out a player's shield or health, or destroy a structure! Damage around the area where their shots explode. You can hit multiple enemies with a single shot, but be careful! Launcher explosions damage you too! Slow-Firing WeaponDespite their power, Launchers do not fire shots rapidly. After firing, you will usually need to wait for a few seconds before firing again. Do not be trigger-happy with this weapon! Shots Take Time To Hit Their TargetThe launcher's shot does not instantly hit the target. You will need to wait for the launcher's shot to reach its destination before it damages anything. Try predicting where your enemy will be before you fire. No Team DamageAlthough you are not immune from the explosion, your teammates are so no need to worry about friendly fire when using this weapon! Weapon TipsDamage Groups Of Enemies Using a Launcher for a group of enemies will allow you to deal a huge amount of damage to multiple enemies with a single shot! Destroy an enemy's structure by firing at its base. By destroying its base, it may also bring down the rest of the structure! Predict Your Enemy's MovementRemember that shots take time to hit their target. Fire your weapon at the area where you think the enemy would be, and damage them in the explosion! Launcher ListRocket Launcher VeaponDPSEnemy DMGCraft DMGReload $597.51303302.5 secs $486.21153153.1 secs $3751003003.6 secs $263.7852854.1 secs Common Rocket Launcher TraitsHeadshot MagnifierNoneFire Rate0.75Magazine with this weapon since it can easily rip apart players and buildings!No Need To ReloadMiniguns do not need to reload so you can spray away! However, it will stop shooting once you run out of ammo for it. Heats Up Before FiringDespite their ability to quickly spew a huge amount of bullets, Miniguns need time to spin their barrels before they can start shooting. Remember to wait for it to fire before engaging! Weapon TipsUse Miniguns To Destroy Structures. Use Miniguns to expose enemies hiding behind their cover! Don't Give The Enemy Time To BreatheSince Miniguns do not need to reload, you can continuously fire at the enemy's cover so they won't have time to fire back or change their strategy!Not For Engaging Enemies At A DistanceDespite the power and speed of Miniguns, their shots are not very accurate. It would be better to switch to another weapon when fighting another player at a distance! Miniguns, their shots are not very accurate.
