If your device is facing the same issue, then it can be fixed by simply changing its security type. It will display basic information related to your Wifi network. Just tap on the eÁÁÁForgeteÁÁÁ button and agree to the pop-up message. You can do it by following these steps. One-click to fix the Wifi authentication error. Use static IP address instead of DHCP DHCP, or Dynamic Host Configuration Protocol is the default IP address assignment for the Wi-Fi settings on many devices. Select eÁÁÁWPA/WPA2-PSKeÁÁÁ and save your selection. Simply provide the credentials and tap on the eÁÁÁConnecteÁÁÁ button to reestablish the connection. So, you'd better change "DHCP" to "Static" to see if the authentication error persists. You can see the following screen. Easy-to-follow instructions provided on each of the screens. Step 4: Note down the static IP address fields and wipe off all the fields. If you already have the Wifi network saved, then simply forget the network by following the above-mentioned tutorial. Open your Wi-Fi settings in the Settings app, like you did when forgetting the network, tap and hold the settings icon.2. Choose "Modify this network" or "Advanced" depending upon your Android phone and look for "DHCP" Á Á3. After making sure that there is no problem with your network or router, follow these suggestions to overcome the authentication error occurred issue. Update Android firmware to the latest. There are instances where an outdated OS version of your Android device may create a hindrance in establishing a connection between your device and the WiFi network. It will open another pop-up window. After a moment, the network will appear in the list of available networks. This will let you establish a static connection between your device and the router. If you canéÁÁÁ find it there, then go to your phoneeÁÁÁs Settings > Connection > More Networks turn turn on the feature of eÁÁÁAirplane ModeeÁÁÁ. Modify network connection If the above solution wonéÁÁÁt work, then you would be required to walk the extra mile to fix the Samsung Wifi problem. When you would select a network, it will provide the basic information related to it. Then plug it back in again and check your connection.Á Change the network from DHCP to StaticIf you still can't authenticate, you can try forcing your Android phone to use a static IP address instead of dynamically choosing one when you connect, which is the default and much more common.Á 1. Simply unplug the router and leave it unpowered for about two minutes. Select all the details that match your device, and click "Next". Bonus tip: Turn Airplane mode on/off By simply turning on the Airplane mode (and later turning it off), you can easily fix the authentication problem Wifi most of the time. Now, try to connect to the network again. To change the security type of a network, you need to eÁÁÁAdd the networkeÁÁÁ. Change Network Security Type It has been observed that, when we connect to Wifi, our device chooses a wrong security type. From here, tap on the option of eÁÁÁManage network settingseÁÁÁ. Try restarting your Wi-Fi router and then check if your device connects successfully. Then choose "Forget this network." Most authentication issues can be solved by dropping the Wi-Fi network and then reconnecting to it, entering the password again. It's akin to rebooting your Wi-Fi radio.To do that, swipe down from the top of your phone to see the quick access icons, and tap "Airplane mode." (The icon will be shaped like an airplane.) Wait several seconds and tap the icon a second time to turn it off. Step 2: Now, hit on the WiFi network that is showing "authentication error occurred". You'll need to know the Wi-Fi password before you begin.Á 1. From here, you can see a list of all the Wifi hotspots that your phone connects to.
