Bofors gun in the 1940s

25 Mar, 2019, 10.26 AM ISTThe electronically upgraded Dhanush howitzer has been upgraded to 45-calibre to increase its maximum strike range to 27-36 km from the earlier 24-30 km.20 Dec, 2018, 10.37 AM ISTAir Chief Marshal B S Dhanoa said the planned procurement had already taken a long time and during this period India’s neighbours have upgraded their own defence arsenal. He also cautioned against politicisation of defence purchases, suggesting that this had earlier led to the delay in the Army acquiring the Bofors gun.09 Aug, 2018, 09.53 AM ISTSinha and Shourie raised a number of questions over the Rs 58,000 crore deal for procurement of 36 Rafale fighter jets from France.14 Jul, 2018, 08.28 PM ISTDefence ministry sources said that the cabinet committee on security , chaired by PM, has cleared the acquisition of 145 M-777 ultra-light howitzers.11 Jul, 2018, 02.43 PM ISTThe PAC is Parliament’s oversight mechanism to keep a check on all government expenditure and is assisted by the CAG through its audit reports from time to time.11 Jul, 2018, 02.11 PM ISTDefence Acquisition Council, chaired by Manohar Parrikar, took up 18 proposals including new schemes worth Rs 28,000 crore.11 Jul, 2018, 02.06 PM ISTOver a period of time, an unwritten red line has come to be broadly accepted: regardless of who makes money and how expensive the deal gets, there should be no compromise on the selection of the best equipment.21 May, 2018, 07.23 PM ISTBofors scandal in 1984 hit the then Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi and his Congress party for allegedly receiving kickbacks over the sale of 410 field howitzer guns.14 Nov, 2013, 09.09 AM ISTMukherjee said Rajiv Gandhi explained his position in a meeting on June 19, 1989, during a meeting between the two at the Prime Minister’s residence.01 May, 2013, 10.52 AM ISTAgainst Maya & Mulayam, the CBI changed its stand on the sufficiency of evidence to file charge sheets against them. This coincided with UPA I & II’s need for BSP, SP support.07 Mar, 2013, 04.44 AM ISTTwo prototypes of the 155mm145-calibre guns have been developed, one with 68% indigenous parts and the other with 46%, and have been "satisfactorily tested".26 Apr, 2012, 01.38 AM ISTDisclosure of former Swedish police chief Sten Lindstrom that he was the "Swedish Deep Throat," and related revelations, has revived the Bofors controversy.15 Oct, 2011, 07.02 AM ISTAllegations of kickbacks paid to middlemen in purchase of Bofors artillery guns led to one of the worst electoral defeats for Congress party in the late 80s.29 Apr, 2011, 01.09 PM ISTBAE Systems today pulled out of Defence Ministry’s tender for purchase of 400 towed artillery guns--an upgraded version of Bofors guns--for the Indian Army.19 Mar, 2011, 02.23 AM ISTA 24-year-old ruling was invoked in the Rajya Sabha on Friday to deny the Opposition a chance from seeking clarifications from PM.04 Jan, 2011, 08.27 AM ISTQuattrocchi and Win Chadha are accused of receiving Rs 41 crore in illegal kickbacks in the Bofors gun purchase scandal of the mid-1980s. As commissioned in 1944, the SLATER carried one twin 40 mm Gun with MK51 director, located on the superstructure aft on the 01 level. A set of torpedo tubes were located on this deck just aft of the stack.Shortly after her shakedown cruise in June 1944, it was decided to remove the torpedo tubes and augment the anti-aircraft battery by placing four more single army type 40 mm gun mounts in their place. Pictures of the SLATER’s tour of duty as a target ship and convoy pictures show these four single mounts. In June 1945, prior to its Pacific tour, these four single mounts were replaced by two twin mounts with MK51 gun directors with lead computing sights located in tubs adjacent to the guns. These continual upgrades are a good example of how the Navy continually improved and up-gunned its ships to meet changing threats.The original, single 40mm design was a product of the Swedish Bofors company and probably ranks as the most efficient close-in air defense weapon on any warship during WWII. A single barreled, air-cooled version was first examined by the U.S. Army in 1937. In 1940 the Chrysler Corporation, one of America’s "big three" auto manufacturers, was contracted build these guns for US service.The twin-barreled example arrived from Sweden via Finland and, using British and Dutch plans, the York Lock & Safe Co. undertook to manufacture them for the Navy, though it did not receive formal license from Sweden to do so until June of 1941. The first twin Bofors was produced in January of 1942. A quadruple version followed in April. Bofors guns soon began appearing fleet-wide, though not until mid-1944 was demand satisfied (and not for the SLATER until May of 45).The efficient 40mm proved adequate for all close-in air defense duties until the kamikaze attacks of the last nine months of the war. Each of the twin 40mm’s fired 160 rounds-per-minute, per barrel with an approximate effective range of 4000 yards. The guns were manned by seven men with ammunition passers added to the crew as required. The crew consisted of a gun captain, pointer, trainer, two first loaders and two second loaders. Ready service ammunition was held in racks welded to the "gun tub," a steel bulwark built around the gun to protect the crew. When ammunition in the ready service racks was used up, they would be refilled from below. Despite all this, it was not devastating enough to stop many diving suicide planes from crashing into their targets.The most effective countermeasure to the kamikaze turned out to be the VT or proximity fuse. In this ammunition, the projectile was detonated electronically. The 40mm was too small to handle the electronics of the proximity fuse, the 76mm guns being the smallest weapons able to handle that devastating projectile. Despite this, the Bofors 40mm remained the primary close-in anti-aircraft weapon of smaller vessels until the Japanese surrender.
